'WE CAN DO BETTER THAN NSW' - VICTORIAN SELECTOR

WELCOME CHELSEA!

Chelsea's brilliant 18-year-old centre forward Peter Osgood (left), sprawls on the ground in a clash with N.S.W. centre half Mita Stojanovich in Sydney last weekend.

Victoria goes for pace, strength

Victoria has chosen its strongest team to play Chelsea at Olympic Park on Sunday.

Henry Dressler, State selector, last night said he had chosen a team of experience and pace.

"I think Victoria will put up a better show than New South Wales did last Saturday," he told Soccer News.

"Chelsea beat N.S.W. 5-0 and I'm hoping for a better result than this.

"I saw this game and NSW were shocking.

"After their draw with Torpedo Moscow they thought they were supreme, but they are not."

FINAL TRIAL

The State Squad had a final trial at Morewell on Sunday and all players showed up well.

"Hammy" McMeechan, the Slavia forward did not play following a club suspension. He is now out of the squad.

Archie Campbell (George Cross winger) has been dropped because of injury and Hellas back Jim Mantaraki's has been replaced by Terry Hartley of Juventus.

Two J.U.S.T. forwards, winger Tom Stankovic and inside man Vero Mladenovic also have gained places in the State side.

It is believed Victoria will adopt a defence style of play and probably use the 2, 4, 4 system to counter the powerful Chelsea attack.

Jim Cook, Soccer News expert, gives Victoria little hope of victory. He writes:

If the strongest Victorian side is chosen to meet Chelsea, it's feasible they may improve on the drubbing the Pensioners gave New South Wales in the opening match of the tour.

ONE EYED

One would have to be king of the "one-eyed" clan to even suggest or think Chelsea are in any danger of defeat or being held to a draw.

Fact is that our top-class Soccer in Australia bears little if any resemblance to top-class Soccer in countries where the round ball game has been long established. As a result, matches against top overseas sides, are a foregone conclusion.

No need to elaborate on Chelsea. The record of the side in the English first division this past season, when they finished third, their F.A. Cup semi-final placing and their League Cup win speaks for itself. A formidable side with a formidable manager.

One can only hope that the Victorian team will give a good account of themselves.

He arrived on Friday to play with State League club Croatia.

Coach denies rumor

George Cross coach John Hemmerling denied this week that he had ordered a player to "get dressed" at a training night recently.

Rumors that his coaching methods were causing disharmony among the players were not true, he said.

John, who has been one of Melbourne's most successful coaches in recent years, took over at George Cross when Jimmy Adam returned to Hellas a few weeks ago.

George Cross officials said last night that Hemmerling had the full confidence of the players and committee.

Johnny come back!

By MARTIN ASTON

If you hear that Slavia's former skipper Johnny Sanchez wants to return to Melbourne, just remember where you read its first.

He has been unable to settle down in Sydney with the Pan Hellenic club.

I cannot say too much about it at the moment because of several things which I have been told in confidence, but I know that Sanchez has written to his old club saying that he made the worst decision of his life by leaving Slavia.

Speaking quite bluntly on the matter, Sanchez has failed to make the impression that Pan Hellenic hoped he would and is struggling to hold his place in the team.

* * *

In my opinion the best story to come out of the English F.A. Cup final was not that Liverpool required two lots of extra time to score a 2-1 victory over Leeds United.

And it was not the fact that one of Liverpool's heroes, Billy Stevenson, not long ago was in Sydney for three months in an unsuccessful bid to play for Apla.

The really big story of the Cup Final was that THE BEATLES WERE UNABLE TO GET TICKETS FOR THE MATCH.

"We'll just have to watch it on the telly," said Ringo Starr after learning that they had left too late to buy tickets to watch their fellow Mermaydians in action.

* * *

It appeared certain that for the first time in Wembley history that the Cup Final would have to be replayed until Liverpool's Scottish star Ian St. John scored the winning goal with a tying header.

And all of the critics who had been tipping that this match between the two toughest teams in British football would develop into a blood bath was wrong.

The only injuries suffered by the players were attacks of cramp.

Leeds had previously been dubbed "the dirtiest side in football" while Liverpool fans—train smashers and bottle throwers—have frightened many visitors away from their home ground.

* * *

Millions of people in the East are starving because their daily diet consists of little more than a couple of handfuls of rice.

But any peasant in Cambodia who thinks that he is going to eat Billy Rice when the Victorian centre half is there in August with our World Cup team will find that he has bitten off more than he can chew.

BACKGROUND TO SOCCER

Rice can start packing his bags and count himself as being assured of a place in the Australian touring party.

This is because the only other centre half who has been chosen in the prospective Australian squad is Sydney's David Zeman and why he has gained a place is beyond my comprehension.

Zeman is an inexperienced young player who is flat out holding his place in the Prague team and must surely fall if he is chosen in either of the games against Chelsea.

He played in the second division competition last year after not being able to gain a regular first team place with the old Gladesville Ryde first division club.

* * *

The most unlikely player not to gain a place in the squad is South Coast's rangy and hard running young star Max Tolson.

The 18-year-old Tolson played as a wing half before switching to centre forward and is the type of "local" player who deserves every possible encouragement.

Ron Corry, the N.S.W. goalkeeper who was the only local player to impress Chelsea's outspoken manager Tommy Docherty last Saturday, is another shock omission.

And my tip is that he will miss out when the selectors come around to picking the No. 2 goalkeeper, to Queensland's Graham Kruger.

Kruger deserved to be the first goalkeeper chosen because he gave an outstanding display in last year's game against Everton and retained the form in the recent match against Torpedo Moscow.

But there appears to be a prejudice against Corry even though he could not be blamed for any of the five goals scored by Chelsea.

Perhaps his lack of height is the reason.

* * *

The selectors deserve praise for including such promising young 18-year-old players as Mick Mandala, the Victorian goal chaser, Bob Fekete, the talented young Sydney right winger, and Bill Haig, the Queensland wing half who gave an outstanding display in the recent game against the Torpedoes.

Fekete appears certain to develop into one of our greatest players.

Another cockeyed selection was that of the Prague left winger Geoff Sleight.

Even officials from his own club laughed at this blunder because Sleight has been in and out of the first team in the last year and like Zeman was not even considered for this year's N.S.W. squad.

Morrie Buckner says...

THE State Squad is something of a shambles.

Some of the key players selected attend neither training rights nor practice matches. If you try to find out why this is so, all you get is a lot of buck-passing and duck-shoveling.

"It's inexcusable", says one administrator. "Clubs will not co-operate", says another. "Players don't appreciate the honor of selection for a representative team any more", says another.

But eventually we discovered that money, as usual, is at the root of the evil. The players are promised "training expenses" and a fee for playing a match, but they haven't been paid a penny since before the first Torpedo game on March 8—two months ago!

Again, when we asked why this is so, everybody connected with this mess blamed somebody else. But one of three things is involved—bad management, incompetence, or sheer carelessness, and none of these things ever produces success.

* * *

THE player who makes a sudden, unexpected attack on a referee catches his victim unprepared and defenceless. This type of player is temperamentally unstable, an abominable coward, and has no place in sport.

Supporters who throw missiles at the referee or players, usually from a safe distance and on their "blind" side, are worse. Most cowardly of all are the larrakins who attack in a gang, looking and acting exactly like a pack of wild dogs that have cornered a wounded kangaroo.

All of these things are sickening to sight, but it's no less sickening to see spectators using cowardly hit-and-run tactics on each other, and this we saw after the Croatia-J.U.S.T. match played in the rain at Olympic Park last Saturday.

The weapons were furred, stumpy umbrellas. The targets were heads. In each of two cases, the blows were struck from behind in a crowd and the umbrella quickly disposed of so that the sneaky attackers went undetected by either their victims or nearby police.

One of these incidents opened a man's head to such an extent that he was quickly covered in blood from head to waist, and several stitches were required to close the gash.

It is becoming more and more obvious that football is losing its aura as a sport in the true sense of that word—on the field, in the council chambers, and among the supporters.

* * *

LET'S play "Name the Sport".

The water was smooth and deep. Croatia cut across J.U.S.T.'s bow at the start, took its wind, and never allowed it to float freely in the first leg to windward. After rounding the buoy at the half-way mark, J.U.S.T. re-rigged its canvas and, tacking cleverly, covered a lot of water but sailed home an easy winner.

CROATIA's young goalie Mirko Kovacek did well to clear all but two of J.U.S.T.'s shots when he was under pressure in the second half, and one of these will have taught him a good lesson—don't trust the long, innocent-looking ball in the wet.

Get your torso behind it and keep your legs together. Billy Rice's 85-yarder landed in the goal-square and skidded through Mirko's hands and legs into the net.

Question to Rice: When did you last score a goal, Bill?

* * *

A LOT of the players that come here from overseas are preceded by glowing reputations. Probably because of the strange conditions that prevail here, some of them fail to play up to their reputations.

Let's hope it will be different for Slavia's newcomer Peter Laxman. This 24-year-old forward has had experience with Charlton Torquay, and in South Africa, and was said to be a noted goal-getter—and Slavia needs a goal-getter like a motor car needs wheels.

In Peter's first outing against Trieste last Saturday, he scored two goals, laid on another, and had a couple of near-misses. And that's not a bad start!

* * *

JUDGING by his three smart goals against Wilhelmshaven, Don Hodgson's spell away from the forward line at centre-half must have sharpened him up. The third one was classed as one of the most spectacularly acrobatic goals seen here for years. Don threw himself through the air horizontally to connect with Tommy McPherson's centre and headed the ball into the net like a bullet from about 15 yards out.

* * *

JUVENTUS seems to be getting along pretty well without a left-winger. Jimmy Molloy wears the No. 11 guernsey, but he's "like roving kind". And his mobile tactics have paid off with four goals in his last two games.

The ball has started to run for Juventus, too—Johnny Bell pulled off that 800-to-1 shot in scoring direct from a corner kick in the last minute against Lions.

* * *

WHEN Juventus is under pressure, all 11 players move into defence. That's natural. But its success this season seems to stem from what appears to be a loose 3-3-4 system that provides a "double seven" formation—seven in defence, seven in attack.

The defensive seven are goalie Gil Biasol, fullbacks Norm Gentry and Terry Hartley, halfbacks Terry Lockhurst, George Scott and Frank Donlevy, and forward Jimmy Miller playing deep as a fourth halfback.

The attacking seven are the wing halves and Miller, and the other four forwards—Frank Barazza, Johnny Bell, Eddie Higgins, and Jimmy Molloy.

Effective? Well, six wins out of six games, 14 goals "for", and one goal "against" isn't a bad record.

KEN SHELLITO (24), full back, Junior product, with Essex and London Schoolboy honours, he signed professional in April, 1957. Played for England at Schoolboy, Youth and Amateur level. Joined Chelsea juniors in 1958 as one of Jimmy Thompson's many Chelsea discoveries and signed professional in August, 1960. ## MELBOURNE LOSE IT IN THE LAST MINUTES

By STEPHEN KALUS
The Melbourne-Hakoah Ajax game was the highlight of last week's juniors' open-age competition.

The game was played in greasy conditions and occasional rain and full credit should go to Melbourne youngsters who handled the heavy ball much better than their opponents. Leading 14-10 minutes before the end, Melbourne gave away a penalty and a few minutes later Hakoah-Ajax got the winning goal.

Goal-scorers for Hakoah were: Orlan 4, Brackley 3 and McKinnon, Petrakis and Camie 1 each.

This weekend the following open-age junior matches will be played: Wilhelmina-Hakoah, Hakoah-Ajax Les-les, Melbourne-Lions, Mornington-Carlton-Serbia and Hercules-Tulmarin.

Under 12: Melbourne 2, Waverley 0; Wilhelmina 2, Bayswater 2.

Under 14: Wilhelmina 16, Bayswater 0; Melbourne 14, Waverley 1; Dandenong 13, Waverley 0; Hellas 5, Springvale 0.

Under 16: Wilhelmina 3, Waverley 0; Springvale 3, Bayswater 0; Hellas 3, Hakoah-Ajax 2.

Under 18: Wilhelmina 5, Box Hill 4; Hakoah 11, Mornington 2.
